Repeats Historic Oath As Left Hand Rests On Two
Open Bibles

BEFORE 120,000 PEOPLE

Million Line Route of Inauguration Parade, Capitol to White House

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—(INS)—Harry S. Truman, a prayer for peace on his lips, today becomes 33rd President of the United States.

The plain-spoken, homespun Missourian who confounded the political experts succeeds himself in the nation's highest post shortly after 12 noon EST.

The chief executive, now nearing 65 and in top health, enters upon his new four-year term when he took the oath of office on the flag-draped stand at the Capitol as the high point of the most festive inauguration in the nation's history.

Mr. Truman, wearing a Prince Albert and top hat, was sworn in by Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, of Kentucky.

In solemn, fervent tones, his left hand resting on two open Bibles, his right hand aloft, the President repeated these historic words:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

An estimated 120,000 persons watched and listened as the President and his Vice-President, Alben W. Barkley, were inducted into office.

Another 1,000,000 lined the route of the inauguration parade from the Capitol to the White House.

President Truman denounced Communism as a "false philosophy" and pledged the might of America to wage the "cold war" until the totalitarian governments join free nations in a guaranteed peace.

The Chief Executive, after taking his oath of office as President, solemnly asserted the United States will support free democracies not only against the "human oppressors" but also against the "world's ancient enemies—hunger, misery and despair."

In his inaugural address, broadcast to the world, Mr. Truman pledged the vast resources of the United States to a four-point "program for peace and freedom."

He said calmly: "We need not have war."

His plan is:

1. Unflinching support of the United Nations.

2. To "keep our full weight behind the European Recovery Program" while reducing trade barriers everywhere.

3. To "strengthen freedom-loving nations against the dangers of aggression" with U. S. participation in the North Atlantic Security Pact and U. S. "military advice and equipment to free nations" co-operating for peace.

4. A "bold new program" to make U. S. scientific and industrial progress available to underdeveloped areas.

Mr. Truman bluntly denounced Communism as the roadblock to peace. He said in blistering words: "That regime adheres to a false philosophy which purports to offer freedom, security and greater opportunity to mankind. Misled by this philosophy, many peoples have sacrificed their liberties only to learn to their sorrow that deceit and mockery, poverty and tyranny, are their reward."

PRESIDENT GETS INAUGURAL BIBLES

PLEASED WITH THE GIFT sent him by his home townsman, President Truman smiles happily as he receives a reproduction of the original Gutenberg Bible purchased by the Independence, Mo., Chamber of Commerce. On it is shown the White House Bible, used when he first took the oath of office on April 12, 1945, and which will again be used. (International)

BRISTOL WOMAN TO PARADE AT CAPITAL

Sergt. Virginia E. Harman, Spruce Street, To Be In Inaugural Parade

FLEW FROM TEXAS

Sergeant Virginia E. Harman, 622 Spruce St., was selected to participate in the inaugural parade for President Truman in Washington, D. C., today it was announced by Brigadier General Charles F. Horn, Commanding General, Inducting Division, Air Training Command, San Antonio, Texas.

As a member of the permanent training detachment of the Women of the Air Force, she will be part of the first WAF contingent to make such a public appearance nationally. Her selection for the parade was based on training progress and individual performance records, according to the Lackland Public Information office.

The WAF marching contingent will be part of a mammoth Air Force band.

TO HONOR HEAD OF COLLEGE AT DINNER

Formal Testimonial Affair To Be Given James Work In Phila.

DATE SET IS JAN. 25TH

FARM SCHOOL, Jan. 20.—A formal testimonial dinner in honor of James Work, President of the National Agricultural College, will be held on Tuesday Evening January 25th at The Warwick Hotel, in Philadelphia. The retired aircraft manufacturer is being honored by the Board of Trustees and local civic and educational leaders "for his inspirational leadership in the reorganization and expansion of the institution," according to Louis A. Hirsch, Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements.

Highlight of the affair will be the presentation of a scroll suitably engrossed and framed in silver with all of the Trustees' signatures. The award will be made by Leon Merz, Chairman of the Board of Trustees.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

President Truman yesterday repeated his inaugural keynote of party unity and fulfillment of campaign promises at a luncheon of the finance committee of the Democratic National Committee and with Mrs. Truman and their daughter attended a round of social functions. At a dinner of the Electoral College he urged that the United States meet its obligations of world leadership. The President will use two Bibles when he is sworn in today. One will be opened at the Beatitudes, the other at the Ten Commandments, which, he said, would make an excellent program.

Congressional leaders moved to implement the President's promise to fulfill campaign pledges. The Senate intends to take up repeal of the Taft-Hartley Law at an early date and the House plans to start on the civil rights program by attacking the poll tax.

This country's armed forces now number 1,621,000 officers and men, the strength proposed by the President in his budget. Defense Secretary Forrestal said. It was felt that no draftees would be called for some time.

Russia's actions in the Berlin situation and the forthcoming talks on an Austrian treaty will speak far louder than Moscow's new verbal "peace offensive," Acting Secretary of State Lovett declared.

The CIO, the British Trades Union Congress and the Dutch Federation of Labor withdrew from the Communist-dominated WFTU.

China has decided to move the capital to Canton from Nanking, which "may soon become a war area." The Nationalist Cabinet proposed a cease-fire to the Communists as a step to opening peace talks. Washington will consult with other nations before deciding whether to move all or part of its embassy from Nanking.

The first draft of an armistice between Israel and Lebanon has been placed before the two Governments. Acting Mediator Bunche was said to have set this week-end as the deadline for a decision in Israeli-Egyptian negotiations. France decided to grant de facto recognition to Israel, provided protection of French interests in Palestine was guaranteed.

A $35,000,000 agricultural credit for Israel was authorized by the Export-Import Bank, which also earmarked $65,000,000 for industrial and utility projects at a later date.

An ECA mission is going to Europe to determine the "irreducible" level of aid.

Hartsville Resident Killed in Florida

VERO BEACH, Fla., Jan. 20.—A Pennsylvania and an Alabama woman were killed last night and three Philadelphia, Pa., residents injured in a head-on collision near here.

The dead: Mrs. Mary Julian, Hartsville, Bucks County, Pa.; and Nina Belle Jenkins, 25, of Phoenix City, Ala.

Mrs. Julian was riding with three friends. They had left Philadelphia Monday to visit Mrs. Julian's son, Caesar, in Hialeah, Fla. The injured are Mr. and Mrs. Harry C. Wolfe, both seriously hurt, and their daughter, Elva, 20, in critical condition, all of this city.

TELLS STORY OF NEIGHBORS' SCRAP

Defendant Says Morrisville Woman Hit Him With A Shovel

DAMS UP THE GUTTER

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 20.—Judge Hiram H. Keller yesterday charged the jury of four women and eight men who have been listening for several days to testimony and speeches in a $9,000 damage suit brought by a Morrisville woman against a former neighbor.

The plaintiff in the case is Mrs. Veronica Zalucki, 60, of Melvin avenue, and the defendant is Theodore A. Kupiec, a General Motors production foreman at the Trenton plant, who lives on Crown street, Morrisville, but used to reside next door to Mrs. Zalucki.

The plaintiff is suing for damages including pain and suffering as a result of a broken left leg which she claims she received when the defendant knocked her down during an argument in front of her home on May 29, 1948, after the defendant had washed his automobile in front of his father's home. Mrs. Zalucki called the defendant to task because waste water was running in front of her property; an argument started and the altercation took place.

The defendant Kupiec took the witness stand Tuesday and gave his version of the affair. He is married and has two children.

Kupiec said that while he was washing his automobile he noticed Mrs. Zalucki approaching the front of her home, pushing a wheelbarrow loaded with ashes, and a shovel.

"She dumped the ashes in the gutter out front and made a dam with the shovel and shovel," Kupiec testified. "She did this three times and the dam was at least a foot high and extended out into the street three feet. The water from the car washing backed up and was six inches deep where I had been washing the car. None of the water was on the Zalucki property."

The defendant testified that he called the attention of Mrs. Zalucki to the fact that she was blocking off the water. The defendant said that the plaintiff replied that she didn't want the dirty water running past her property.

"She returned to the back of her home with the wheelbarrow and shovel as I told her the street and gutter were public," the defendant testified.

"When she returned again to the front of the house, I grabbed the shovel from her after I had opened up the dam to leave the water through. She became hysterical and hit me across the back of the neck twice with the shovel blade, and called me all sorts of names in Polish."

"It was then that I grabbed Mrs. Zalucki with both my hands, taking hold of her arms and lifting her up, carried her back to her own property and set her down after lifting her across the top of a one-foot-high hedge fence. She was kicking and hitting at me all this time."

It was at this point that the plaintiff claims the defendant knocked her down and broke her left leg.

Kupiec denied that he choked the plaintiff or that he knocked her down or beat her. The defendant was corroborated by a number of witnesses before both sides closed yesterday afternoon.

SLIGHT FIRE

EDDINGTON, Jan. 20.—It is stated that no damage was caused when a slight fire occurred last evening in the boiler room of Eddington & Russell Co., here (plant formerly occupied by Keystone Wood Preserving Co.) Three C. & O. tubes were used by members of Eddington, Union and Cornwells No. 1 fire companies, who responded to the alarm.

INSTALLATION

The officers of Bristol Council No. 58, Daughters of America, will be installed at the meeting to be held tomorrow evening in Odd Fellows Hall, Walnut and Radcliffe streets. All elected officers are asked to be present for this service.

"I DO SOLEMNLY SWEAR..."

Brass-bands, cocktail parties and noisy crowds cannot hide the fact that the inauguration of a President is a serious occasion.

He takes an oath which is as important, and should be as sacred, as any ritual which a mortal being can undergo:

"I do solemnly swear that I will faithfully execute the office of President of the United States, and will to the best of my ability, preserve, protect and defend the Constitution of the United States."

Many rulers have sworn allegiance, in taking office, to many things. Some have sworn allegiance to God, some to kings, some to the people themselves. What is unique about the American oath of office is that it swears allegiance to none of these, but instead to a document—to basic law; to a body of principles.

By his oath, an American President is sworn not to be a "radical" in the sense of trying to revolutionize his government. He is sworn to maintain it and perpetuate it as it was founded. That was the intention. The founders of this nation built the one workable form of self-government the world has ever known; and they sought by every means to see that it should not perish from the earth.

President Truman comes to office under strange circumstances. His own situation, and that of the nation and the world, are unlike anything before.

The world itself is in crisis. The principle of self-government by the people has been formally abandoned around the globe except for the United States. Here alone is a major nation operating under basic laws drawn on the principle that the people themselves shall rule the government, and not the other way round.

But Uncle Sam has been sorely tempted to abandon this principle. This country is in the throes of a mass drift towards the setting up of a super-government—to do for the people the things which otherwise the people would do for themselves.

DIST GOVERNOR OF KIWANIS IS SPEAKER

Elmer L. Menges Guest of Bucks Co. Club On Kiwanis' 34th Anniversary

INTRODUCE GUESTS

PENNDIEL, Jan. 20.—The Bucks County Lincoln Highway Kiwanis Club was honored with the presence of District Governor Elmer L. Menges at its dinner meeting Tuesday evening at the Royal Gardens, Bensalem township.

Governor Menges spoke on Kiwanis Education in observance of the 34th anniversary of Kiwanis. He dwelt on the fourth object of Kiwanis, i.e., "to develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship." He went on to say that "Kiwanis does more to educate its people than any other service organization." He stressed the importance of committee work and said that the respective chairmen should assign specific duties to committee members. The club should pick out a project and build up a fund so that it can contribute to the needy when the occasion arises. "One who contributes in effort and work is the true Kiwanian. It is service that measures success; it isn't the fellow that contributes money, but one whose service is given—service is success," asserted Gov. Menges.

Many helpful suggestions were given by the guest concerning club activities and committee work.

Prior to Gov. Menges' talk, the following guests were introduced: Walter Reller, of the Ambler Kiwanis Club; Horace Bloomer, Old York Road Club; Dr. Robert R. Moody, of Cornwells Heights; and S. Yantes.

John A. A. Crowley and Donald Weeks lead group singing, and Doris Millikin accompanied at the piano. Birthday greetings of the month were acknowledged with the usual singing.

Chairman of the public affairs committee, John A. A. Crowley, announced that Lester Thomas, managing editor of the Delaware Valley Advance, will on January 25th talk on "The Community and the Newspaper."

On Feb. 1st the Langhorne Boy Scout group will be guest of Kiwanis. An attractive program has been arranged for this date by the "boys and girls committee."

PUPILS VIEW INAUGURATION

Through courtesy of Thomas Proff & Sons, all pupils of Bristol Junior and senior high school today were privileged to witness, by means of television, the administering of the oath of office to President Harry S. Truman at Washington, D. C. At various times throughout the day, different high school groups will be enabled to view other phases of the inauguration activities at the high school.

APPROVES PAYMENT

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—Auditor General G. Harold Wagner has approved payments totalling $69,833.44 to eight state-aided institutions. The institutions in Bucks County and the amount each will receive are: National Agricultural College, $6,000; Quakertown Hospital Association, $1,825.

IN POLIO BROADCAST

Joining their voices in an appeal for the 1949 March-of-Dimes campaign, a famous trio is shown during a broadcast in Washington. At right is Margaret Truman, daughter of the President and, at left, Shirley Temple and her actor-husband, John Agar.

Bristol authorities have made it possible for those desiring to add this cause to drop dimes into the borough parking meters.

Girls, Boys Gather For Jolly Party Time

CROYDON, Jan. 20.—A party was held Tuesday evening in honor of Joseph Haines, at his home on Belmont avenue.

Games were played and prizes awarded, after which refreshments were served.

Those attending: Donald Hibbs, Arnold Moore, Norman Leuschel, Harry Schurr, Walter Epp, John Cappen, Harry Donecker, John Barker, Paul Schnepp, Alexander Konnyes, James Clark, Benjamin Gartner, Charles Leighton, Anthony Cinkutis, Charles Catugno; James Robert, Harry, John Louise and Eileen Haines.

Joseph received many gifts.

STRESSES NEED FOR EMOTIONAL INSURANCE

Dr. Charlotte Grave, of The Woods Schools, Speaks at Hulmeville

TO P. T. A. MEMBERS

HULMEVILLE, Jan. 20.—"If we're going to give our children emotional insurance, we must be our own insurance company." This was one of the statements made by Dr. Charlotte Grave, psychologist, of the Woods School, Langhorne, when she addressed Parent-Teacher Association members at Hulmeville-Middle-town public school last evening.

In this connection, Dr. Grave stated as she considered the welfare of the children, "We must think first of their basic needs, so they will have emotional stability and protection. Children and adults, alike, need a feeling of security and of achievement. The two would guarantee us against emotional loss. Possibly each of us here has, during our life-time, felt insecure at one time or another, or as if we were not worthwhile persons. These feelings of insecurity go way back into the child's earliest days. The responsibility of parents is not only to provide for the child's physical needs, but also to provide for their emotional needs."

POSTMASTERS OF COUNTY ARE NOW BEING ORGANIZED

Charles S. Doyle, Pennel, Is Chosen As President of Group

TO ENLIST MEMBERS

Monthly Meetings Are Now Being Planned For County

PENNDIEL, Jan. 20.—Charles S. Doyle, Pennel (formerly South Langhorne) has been elected president of a new organization known as the Bucks County Postmasters Association. Two well attended organization meetings have been held in the past few weeks in Doylestown with over two-thirds of the postmasters in Bucks County in attendance.

Other officers elected are as follows: Joseph A. Zalot, postmaster at Langhorne as first vice-president; Robert S. Burns, postmaster, Newtown, as second vice-president; and Mrs. Edith Y. Farley, postmaster at George School, as secretary-treasurer.

Doyle has been a resident of Pennel for the past thirty years and has been postmaster of this borough for the last sixteen years. This new county postmasters organization will be affiliated with the state and national postmasters associations. A drive is already under way to enlist 100% membership of the ninety-five postmasters in Bucks County. The division of the postmasters in Bucks County is 12 first class offices, 10 second class offices, 28 third class offices, and 45 fourth class offices.

The main purpose of this new organization is to meet monthly and to mutually discuss the many problems incident to the operation of post offices so that the service to the public can be improved. The postal service will have experienced inspectors at each meeting to discuss different phases of the post office regulations thoroughly. Many benefits will come to all postmasters belonging to this county organization because of its association with the state and national organizations.

Harry P. Shriner, Columbia, president of the Pennsylvania Postmasters Association was a guest speaker at the original organization meeting and assisted materially in getting the Bucks County group organized. Chief Inspector, Stevens and Inspector Noone, of the Philadelphia district office also were guests at the meeting and delivered excellent addresses on postal regulations. William H. Rufe, Jr., Postmaster of Sellersville and Lester C. Trauger, Postmaster at Perkasie have been appointed to the Program Committee to arrange for future meetings. The next get together will be in the form of a dinner meeting to be held in Doylestown on April 13th.

Morrisville Officials To Attend Convention

Five Morrisville officials will attend the Pennsylvania State Association of boroughs convention at the Penn Harris Hotel, Harrisburg, on February 10, 11 and 12.

Planning to represent the borough are Councilmen Edward R. Roberts Jr., David Talone and Edwin W. Greenlee, solicitor Willard S. Curtin and secretary William H. Howell.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Klerman
(Distributed by International News Service)

News of the election of Susan Hayward as "The Most Beautiful Girl In The World" is being withheld from Aly Khan for the present.

Miss Hayward was picked by 492 beauticians who found her pretty, shapely, and free of foreign entanglements.

But the government's choice for "Miss Independence of 1947-8-9" is Miss Vivien Kellems who refuses to collect its taxes from her employees.

Miss Kellems is the industrialist voted as "The Girl The Treasury Would Least Like To Be Stranded in a Courtroom With."

And she has the distinction of being the only manufacturer who begs the Attorney General to indict her and can't get prompt service.

If she ever decides to run for president, Harry had better get into his Battery D uniform again... it's going to be a tough campaign.

LADY SHOPPERS

A man who brashly went shopping and bought his wife a couple of dresses just before Christmas, only to have her exchange them for something more to her liking, made another sad mistake. He went hat-hunting—with her!

"Never saw anything like it;
don't expect to ever witness it again," he said.

"First, she and the saleslady run a contest to see how many hats they can try on and pile up on the discard heap before them.

"Then, after half an hour of this and much preening and mirror-peeking, they both reach under the pile and come out with one tried on at the start.

"The saleslady says it looks good on her; the lady herself frowns and comments that it looks silly. Then she buys the thing!"

A wiser and more experienced man of the world chuckled with deep understanding, and said:

"Your story sounds so very familiar. They are all alike when it comes to shopping for clothes.
And don't expect them to change."

Women, he was talking about.

ETHER FOR DRIVERS

In New York City and Washington simultaneously, hot arguments are developing over whether radios should be permitted in taxicabs. The City Hack Bureau in Gotham has already issued an order for the 1,000 taxis that still have radios to get rid of them in a week.

In the nation's capital, Prosecutor Clark King says listening to the radio violates an ordinance requiring drivers to give "full time and attention" to their driving. (So presumably, does conversation.)

In New York, a taxi spokesman says not a single accident in recent years could be blamed upon a radio. In Washington, Mr.
King cited the testimony of a defendant who failed to get out of the way of fire trucks because the radio prevented him from hearing the sirens. Another driver, he said, unconsciously increased his speed from 25 to 50 miles an hour during a tense movement in a radioed baseball game.

What could conceivably happen to the driver listening to race results when he has picked a winner?

A representative of the Automobile Association of America, homing into the argument via Washington, says there are many advantages to an auto radio. On the highway, for instance, it helps keep a driver awake. But he agreed that the driver who listens to a radio in heavy traffic is an "extremely careless driver."

No state has laws which forbid listening to the radio while driving. But auto deaths have approached 40,000 in the United States in a single year. That
ing still isn't so simple that added distractions do not matter.

There is no law against having a radio in a car and listening to it. But the wise driver is careful now he uses it.

To Honor Head of College At Dinner

In addition to Hirsch, who is presiding, others who are taking part in the program include: Earl G.
Harrison; Hon. Harry Shapiro;
Albert M. Greenfield; Samuel M.
Golden, President of the Alumni Association; Samuel Cooks; Mrs.
Joseph Krauskopf, wife of the founder of the institution; and Samuel B. Samuels, Administrator of the College.

A graduate of the institution,
James Work has been an active member of the Board of Trustees of the National Agricultural College for 25 years and, in September, 1943, was elected Treasurer of the National Farm School. Mr. Work was elected President on May 23, 1946, and in October, 1948, was re-elected President for a second term of three years. His intensive analysis of the school pointed to a need for more theory in training. As a result, the school was approved as a Junior College on May 5, 1946.

Based upon further study of other agricultural colleges, James Work drafted the curricula for a four-year senior college course, offering a degree of Bachelor of Science in Agriculture. The Junior College was again approved by the State Council of Education as a senior college, on May 7, 1948, and the name was changed to "National Agricultural College." Current planning envisions the establishment of a Graduate School.

Mainly through James Work's inspirational leadership, the non-sectarian school, founded by the late Rabbi Joseph Krauskopf, D.D., in 1896, "to give all deserving young men an opportunity to become scientific and practical agriculturalists," has grown into a recognized College covering 1,200 acres, with a beautiful campus and splendid modern buildings and facilities for the highest collegiate standards of education.

A native Philadelphia, James Work was graduated from the National Farm School in 1913. During his student days he was captain of the football and track teams, editor of the student publication and President and Valetorian of the Senior Class. After graduation, he coached the football team for ten years.

Following his schooling, James Work purchased a dairy farm in Perkiomen Valley which he successfully operated for three years.
He then became associated with the U. S. Navy. As Assistant Chief Engineer of the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, he was given charge of the designing and engineering of the "Shenandoah." During this five year period he also coached the station's football team.

He left Lakehurst to become Assistant General Manager of the naval aircraft factory in Philadelphia and, in 1928, was appointed Vice President and General Manager of the Lockheed Aircraft Corporation in Burbank, California.
Later, he organized the Brewster Aeronautical Corporation and directed its production throughout World War II.

The College is supported by student fees, appropriations by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and the contributions from various organizations and individuals interested in advancing the College, and the efforts of the Philanthropic Board of Trustees.

There are six hundred acres of ground under cultivation on the various farms, which are equipped with the most modern farm machinery. A dairy herd of one hundred and twenty cows is maintained and a poultry plant of six to eight thousand birds. Greenhouses with an area of 16,000 square feet are operated to their fullest capacity. A large nursery is operated. Peach rub on Vicks VapoRub!

Now...when your child wakes up in the night tormented with a croupy cough or a cold, here's a special way to use Vicks VapoRub. It's VapoRub Steam — and it brings relief almost instantly!
Put a good spoonful of Vicks VapoRub in a bowl of boiling water or vaporizer. Then...let your child breathe in the soothing VapoRub Steam. Med-

President Truman, taking the oath to preserve the Constitution, is haunted by countless pledges made during his campaign which call for fundamental changes in the balance and the methods of the national government. Some of the innovations he has promised are certain to alter profoundly, if not the Constitution itself, the form of government which has existed under it for more than a century and a half.

Most basic alteration he has demanded is the reversal of the Constitutional status of the Chief Executive and Congress, which was conceived as the people's own branch of the government, superior in a show-down to the President himself. Implied by his campaign and by his recent messages is President Truman's proposal that hereafter Congress shall take second place to the President. It would have power to consider, but not to reject, whatever the President has in mind.

President Truman's strange situation in American history goes still farther. He was elected in one of the most critical but most apathetic elections ever held. Only half of the qualified voters were sufficiently interested to go to the polls on election day. The others either were indifferent, or so confident of the outcome that they failed to do their part to make sure of it. In this 50 per cent vote, President Truman actually received less than half of the ballots cast. He is one of several "minority" Presidents the country has known. Two splinter parties and the Republicans together amassed more votes than Mr. Truman. More votes were cast against him than for him.

Still more striking is that fact that the returns show Mr. Truman received only about one-fourth of the total qualified vote of this nation. Only one person in four wanted him enough to vote for him.

Back of this circumstance is the fact that the Democratic Party, as such, has fallen apart. As a party, it didn't write its own platform, didn't nominate Mr. Truman of its own free choice, and had exceedingly little to do with his campaign.

Far more so than any predecessor, President Truman was elected as an individual rather than as the leader of a party. Promises and patronage, not party principles, won him his victory.

But the Democratic Party is not alone in suffering internal splits that, if unhealed, can destroy the U. S. traditional two-party system, and may one day lead us to the demoralization which all multi-party nations suffer—France, for example.

The Republican party also is rent by the differences between those who want to bow to the storm, and those who wish to keep right on fighting for what they believe in.

Very few of the tremendous issues shortly to go before Congress can be expected to be met on strict party lines. Scores of Democrats oppose one or more of the Truman planks; perhaps more than a handful of Republicans will wind up voting for them.

The gayly celebrating adherents of President Truman, thronging the sidewalks and hotel lobbies of Washington, probably give little thought to the rip-tides of destiny through which this nation must be brought, if it is to survive.

This is a gala occasion for them: a party; a festival. To many of them, all that the election means was another four-year ride on the gravy train. For some of them, the watchword is "after us the deluge."

But there are serious-minded Democrats to whom the occasion comes as a challenge and a dramatic, sobering spectacle. The Democratic Party has never lacked patriots who put the welfare of their nation ahead of patronage or party advantage. To them, the fluttering banners and excited crowds do not hide the fact that this nation is moving towards a cross-roads just as momentous as any in its history.

And what of Mr. Truman himself? What are his emotions? What thoughts stream through his mind?

He is a man of quick emotions, impressionable, at times strongly religious. More perhaps than any one factor, the side of Mr. Truman which caught America's fancy after his rise to the Presidency was his air of modesty and humble sincerity. The unheeded gesture when he kissed the Bible after taking his oath showed his reactions then.

Actually, the crisis ahead is far more serious, though less dramatic, than the problems he faced when first he took the oath of office. Does he appreciate this? Is he still as modestly eager to do his best? Or has he reacted on an "I'll show them!" line?

Of course no one can know what is in Mr. Truman's mind and heart today. But that unknowable factor will have more bearing on the future of the world, the nation and the American people than any other factor on earth.

The revelation of Mr. Truman's emotional and mental reactions to his second oath-taking as President is what will write the history of the next four years—and perhaps many years to come.

Revive Custom of Giving Cash Attendance Award

ANDALUSIA, Jan. 20 — The Andalusia Parent-Teacher Association held a meeting in Andalusia school on Monday evening, with Mrs. Raymond Vickers in charge. Mrs. Charles Henty offered prayer, and reports of committees were heard. A Valentine party will be held on February 14th. Several years ago it was customary for the P.T.A. to present $2 to the class winning the attendance banner. At this meeting this custom was revived and Mrs. Murphy's first grade won the banner and prize. Mrs. Rhodus and Mrs. Watson, teachers, expressed appreciation for the radios for use in class rooms. Mrs. Watson voiced her appreciation to the parents in their cooperation to have their children place orders for milk instead of a chocolate drink. She stated that the government defrayed expense of two cents on each bottle of milk, saving the children money.

The purchase of a duplicating machine for the school was discussed, and Mrs. Lester Stump is to investigate cost, etc. In order to help raise money for the duplicator a covered dish supper will be held soon. Mrs. Harold Weinland, chairman of the committee with Mrs. Stanley Smith, Mrs. Charles Henty and Mrs. Alex Weber assisted.

Otto Grupp, Jr., showed color slides of trips to the west coast. Coffee and cake were served, with Mrs. Stanley Smith as chairwoman of the committee.

Former President To Speak To Travel Club Members

Mrs. John J. Willaman will be the guest speaker tomorrow afternoon at the regular meeting of the Bristol Travel Club, in the club home, at 2.30.

Mrs. Willaman, who now resides in Plymouth Meeting, is a former member of the club and held the office of president from 1935 until 1937.

The program will include a vocal soloist, Mrs. John O'Neill, of Plainfield, N. J., who will be accompanied by DeWitt Cook, of Edgely.

This meeting will be in charge of the art committee, of which Mrs. Theodore B. Megargee is chairwoman. Mrs. Megargee will also serve as a hostess with Mrs. Russell W. DeLong.

This will be a guest day.

Truman Takes Oath As 33rd President of U. S.

"That false philosophy is Communism."

But the President held the door to peace wide open to Russia and its satellites. He said:

"In due time, as our stability becomes manifest, as more and more nations come to know the benefits of democracy and to participate in growing abundance, I believe that those countries which now oppose us will abandon their delusions and join with the free nations of the world in a just settlement of international differences."

Mr. Truman declared the United States would be aided in its peace program "by all who desire freedom of speech, freedom of religion and freedom to live their own lives for useful ends."

The Chief Executive asserted: "Our allies are the millions who thirst and hunger after righteousness."

"Democracy alone can supply the vitalizing force to stir the peoples of the world into triumphant action, not only against their human oppressors, but also against their ancient enemies—hunger, misery and despair."

A huge crowd saw Mr. Truman sworn into his new four-year term by Chief Justice of the United States Fred M. Vinson at the Capitol.

The President said that the European Recovery Program, working for less than a year, already has turned away the specter of war.

He added: "Our efforts have brought new hope to all mankind. We have beaten back despair and defeatism. We have saved a number of countries from losing their liberty."

"Hundreds of millions of people all over the world now agree with us, that we need not have war—that we can have peace."

He said that the "initiative is ours," to build an "even stronger structure of international order and justice." He continued:

"We shall have as our partners countries which, no longer solely concerned with the problem of national survival, are now working to improve the standards of living of all their people."

"We are ready to undertake new projects to strengthen the free world."

The President announced his peace plan to the most tremendous multitude that ever assembled for a Presidential inaugural.

More than 100,000 jammed the stands in the plaza before the stately United States Capitol, thronged the wide lawns and overflowed into the surrounding streets.

Well-wishers among the bystanders shouted "Hiya, Harry" as he drove to the Capitol from the Blair House in a cavalcade of open cars with Vice-President Alben W. Barkley, the First Lady, daughter Margaret, Barkley's daughter, Mrs. Max Truitt, and inaugural committee members.

Before he motored to the Capitol, the President attended private church services with his family at nearby St. John's Episcopal Church.

There, he sought divine guidance for the task that lies ahead.

Earlier in the morning, the President breakfasted with the survivors of his First World War field artillery battery, who later in the day formed an honorary escort as he led his own inaugural parade from the Capitol to the White House.

In keeping with the solemnity of the occasion, the President wore a formal Prince Albert and top hat, which he doffed to the cheering multitude.

The Supreme Court, Cabinet members of the Senate and House, high government officials, foreign envoys and party leaders shared the inaugural platform with the President and Vice-President.

Prayers opened the solemn ceremony at noon.

Vice-President Barkley was sworn first by Associate Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed.

The President then took the oath. His left hand rested on two Bibles opened at the "Beatitudes"—"Blessed is the peace-maker"—and at Exodus 20, the Ten Commandments.

As he took over the Presidency for another four years, Mr. Truman made this solemn pledge:

"I accept it with a deep resolve to do all that I can for the welfare of this nation and for the peace of the world."

He said: "Today marks the beginning not only of a new administration, but of a period that will be eventful perhaps decisive, for us and the world."

"It may be our lot to experience and in large measure to bring about, a major turning point in the long history of the human race."

"The first half of this century has been marked by unprecedented and brutal attacks on the rights of man and by the two most frightful wars in history."

"The supreme need of our time is for men to learn to live together in peace and harmony."

Mr. Truman gave as his four-year goal: "Peace, Plenty and Freedom." He said:

"Above all else, our people desire, and are determined to work for, peace on earth—a just and lasting peace—based on genuine agreement freely arrived at by equals."

The President then launched his blistering attack on Communism by declaring:

"In the pursuit of these aims, the United States and other like-minded nations find themselves directly opposed by a regime with contrary aims and a totally different concept of life."

Mr. Truman contrasted Communism and democracy in biting, incisive sentences:

"Communism subjects the individual to arrest without lawful cause, punishment without trial, and forced labor as a chattel of the state."

"Democracy maintains that government is established for the benefit of the individual."

"Communism holds that the world is so deeply divided into opposing classes that war is inevitable."

"Democracy holds that free nations can settle differences justly and maintain peace."

Then, he added:

"These differences between Communism and democracy do not concern the United States alone. People everywhere are coming to realize that what is involved is material well-being, human dignity, and the right to believe in and worship God."

"I state these differences, not to draw issues of belief as such, but because the actions resulting from the Communist philosophy are a threat to the efforts of free nations to bring about world recovery and lasting peace."

In building defensive barriers against aggression through such security pacts as the Treaty of Rio de Janeiro and the North Atlantic Area, the President said that:

"The primary purpose of these agreements is to provide unmistakable proof of the joint determination of the free countries to resist armed attack from any quarter. Each country participating in these arrangements must contribute all it can to the common defense."

"If we can make it sufficiently clear, in advance, that any armed attack affecting our national security would be met with overwhelming force, the armed attack might never occur."

He said he will soon send the Senate a treaty covering the proposed North Atlantic Security Pact, and added:

"In addition, we will provide military advice and equipment to free nations which will cooperate with us in the maintenance of peace and security."

To carry out the policies of "Peace, Plenty and Freedom," the President emphasized "We must have continued prosperity in this country and we must keep ourselves strong."

Mr. Truman concluded on this solemn note:

"Steadfast in our faith in the Almighty, we will advance toward a world where man's freedom is secure."

"To that end we will devote our strength, our resources, and our firmness of resolve. With God's help the future of mankind will be assured in a world of justice, harmony, and peace."

Stresses Need For Emotional Insurance

a matter of keeping a baby clean and well-fed, but of providing a feeling of comfort and love. A baby's security depends on the feeling that he is loved and really wanted."

Dr. Grave spoke of various personality disturbances that continue through to adult life if needed comfort is neglected during early childhood. "We have to start from the day a baby is born to make him feel he has a safe place in the family." One or two case records were cited by the speaker to show that bad behavior patterns stem from an immaturity or instability on the part of a parent. In one particular case, where a boy of four years was unable to talk, it was found that his immature and unstable mother had frequently changed his nurses, the result being that he had been in the care of approximately 25 during his short four years. "With the welfare of the boy given careful consideration by his grandparents and his father, now divorced from the boy's mother, the lad at seven years speaks well, and is frequently called upon by his teacher to show guests about the school room. Thus we find some cases of 'over-protection' where children never have a chance to grow up. Some children who do not learn to talk when they should do not have speech difficulties, but the trouble is their every wish is anticipated. Taken away from such environment they blossom out. They feel more secure when given a chance to stand on their own feet."

The over-protective child of the "bully" type was taken into consideration, also the quiet, withdrawing type who never contributes to activities with which he comes in contact. "Both have a real and difficult problem," commented the guest. "Many children become annoying to others because they have a feeling of frustration, and that is the only way they feel they can command attention. . . . We should build up a policy in the home so that a child will feel he is wanted and loved, and so he will be able to achieve at his own level, moving the standards up as he moves up. Emotional insurance is the guard-rail you set up to prevent the child and later the adult from 'destruction' in the pitfalls of life."

Dr. Grave was introduced to the assembly by Mrs. Edward M. Linforth.

In the absence of the president, Fred Herrmann, the meeting was conducted by the treasurer, N. P. Larson. Records of the meeting were kept by secretary, Miss Margaret Perry. Report of the cafeteria committee, presented by principal Frank Blinder, showed 1114 meals served from Dec. 16 to Jan. 18, inclusive, or an average of 65½ pupils per day. Ned Moyer, of the ways and means committee, informed that the cafeteria has been painted. Chairman of membership committee, Mrs. Charlotte Walsh, stated that membership now totals 60. Prices for electric stoves were presented by Mrs. Pettigrew.

Motion was passed that with permission of the school board, the P. T. A. pay for some re-wiring at the school in order that electric stove might be used with safety. Attendance award was won by second grade. Members were informed that pupils today will witness the inauguration ceremony at Washington, D. C., by means of a television set.

Serving refreshments in the cafeteria were the following: Mr. and Mrs. Ross Buckman, Mrs. Elwyn Neitzel, Mrs. Joseph Mucklow, Jr., and Mrs. Brathy.

New Chevrolet Goes On Display Saturday

A product of three years' development work and more than a million miles of engineering research, the 1949 Chevrolet goes on display in dealer showrooms here Saturday.

The latest model has been completely restyled. It is lower, wider and more distinctive than any previous series. Not only does the design introduce superior beauty to the lowest-priced ranks, but numerous body and chassis improvements promise to add to Chevrolet's reputation for comfort, safety and convenience.

Two series of cars, the Fleetline and Styleline, are included with DeLuxe treatment an option in most body types. DeLuxe cars lay increased emphasis on the styling of fabrics, trim and appointments.

BRISTOL ROAD WAS AMONG EARLIEST

It Was The Route of The First Stagecoach, It Is Stated

HEAVILY TRAVELED

The growth of Pennsylvania from an uncharted woodland to its supreme position in industry, mining, and farming is largely the dramatic story of its roads, how they developed from paths and wagon trails to the world's greatest transportation system.

From the very beginning William Penn recognized the importance of roads to Pennsylvania's development, and in making grants of land for towns and settlements and to individuals, he stipulated that a given number of acres be used for public roads. Responsibility for their opening and maintenance was placed upon government.

Only a few feet wide, the early roads often were merely horse paths following for the most part the trails the Indians blazed through the wilderness. Over time the frontiersmen drove their pack horses loaded with seeds, salt, dry goods, hardware, and other things needed in building a new way of life.

In the East the roads were gradually widened for the passage of carts and wagons and by the time of the French and Indian War a wagon road reached from Philadelphia to Carlisle.

With the outbreak of that war it became a military necessity to extend a wagon road across the Alleghenies to Pittsburgh in order to supply the colonial armies.

With the coming of stagecoaches and the famed Conestoga wagon which originated in Pennsylvania and was designed to carry heavy loads, agitation for improved roads grew.

Better roads of the later periods were made of pounded stone laid about 14 inches deep with large, coarse cobblestones forming the road bed and progressively smaller sizes used nearer the surface. Earth served as a binding agent, and stone crushed to dust and rolled hard and smooth by horse rollers formed the top. They were generally called macadam roads because the process was developed by John MacAdam, a Scottish engineer. Further refinements have been made in the process.

The most travelled early roads in eastern Pennsylvania were the Bristol Road from Philadelphia to New York, the route of the first stagecoach; and King's Highway running from Philadelphia to Chester, Baltimore and Annapolis. The Lancaster Road, laid out in 1733, became the most important roadway leading westward and was the first link in the highway from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh.

Other famous old highways were the Braddock Road opened originally for General Braddock's army, the Susquehanna Trail, the Frankstown Road now a part of the William Penn Highway, the Forbes Road later called the Pennsylvania Road across the Alleghenies via Bedford and today known as the Lincoln Highway, and the Glade Road all played vital roles in the settlement of the West and the emergence of Pennsylvania as an industrial and agricultural power.

Later the old National Pike or Cumberland Road, the only highway ever wholly constructed by the Federal Government, was built from Cumberland, Maryland, to the Ohio River near Wheeling and became a main artery between the East and West, and is now known as U. S. Route 40.

As the need for improved roads increased and costs rose, the State began to charter turnpike companies and the era of toll roads began. Many of these roads were built of planks in the decade between 1846-56 but heavy traffic and the rapid deterioration of the wood soon ended their popularity.

From the middle 1800's to the turn of the century railroads and canals supplanted highways as the principal means of transportation. During this period the State's roads were badly neglected, and highway appropriation ceased altogether after 1875.

In 1903 a general highway measure was passed by the Legislature because of the renewal of interest in roads brought about first by the vogue of the bicycle and then the automobile.

This was followed by the Sprout Act of 1911 providing for the organization of the State Highway Department along the general lines under which it now operates. The act also inaugurated a policy of state-aid and cooperation of local units of government and placed the entire responsibility for important roads on the State.

The Department's first effort was directed toward a primary State Highway system, connecting the county seats and centers of population.

From 1931-39 construction centered on farm-to-market roads designed to get the farmer out of the mud and provide year-round access to the State's great rural areas. Today Pennsylvania has more than 49,000 miles of State highways, extending from the most remote sections to the densely populated metropolitan centers and linking the Commonwealth together in an unexcelled highway system.

Inside Your Congress

Mr. Truman's Message

SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

It might just as well have been Prime Minister Attlee speaking to the British Parliament. The social welfare state is now on our doorstep because Republican party leaders have refused to trace its paternity back to Attlee, Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin.

Mussolini said, "Nothing outside the State; everything for the State; nothing against the State." The State can fix prices, wages and rents. The State may confiscate private property without compensation. The State can and should build and operate steel plants when it decides to do so; and then, anything else. Anything whatever!

Mr. Truman describes his program as the great tasks to which God has called us. With all respect, I wish he had not asked God to help pay his campaign debts.

In the Middle Ages, church politicians, pretending to speak for God, were strong for the "just price" and the "just wage"—something to be determined by the politicians and not by willing sellers and buyers in a free market.

The social welfare state is thus presented as having very pious parents, whereas, in fact, as becomes plainer day by day, its law is the law of the wolf-pack—who has the most votes? Shall rents be controlled? Who has the votes? Shall we tax everyone, or only the more successful? Who has the votes? Shall we keep up food prices for farmers, or bring them down for city housewives? Who has the votes? Or, even better, shall we subsidize potatoes to keep them high, and subsidize the consumers so they can buy the potatoes? All this in the name of Jehovah and Thomas Jefferson! Sweet land of subsidy, of thee I sing.

Mr. Truman's message outlined the Beveridge Plan for America. Step by step, one control calling for the next, it has proceeded to its fatal end in England, now kept out of the bankruptcy courts by the American debt. "Winning" two world wars did not alone bring Britain to its sorry pass. Before World War I began, politicians in England began to ride to power on "nine pence for four pence." You put in four pence, and the politicians will tax someone else for print the money) to pay you nine pence.

Something for nothing. Sops to the control of industry of the private capitalist." Mr. Truman would put the government in control.

In its "Reconstruction Program" thirty years ago, the British Labor Party called for a "national minimum" for everyone, no matter whether they worked or shirked. Mr. Truman calls it the minimum wage. The British called for "Public Health, Housing and Education Acts." Mr. Truman calls for "federal aid." As if the Washington politicians can "aid" anyone. If so, why do they vote us to raise their salaries? Why don't they "raise" themselves?

The British Socialists, in 1917, demanded a reduction in hours, with no reduction in pay, or increase of output. Well, we have it. Its other name is inflation—more dollars for no more goods—which robs everyone, and the poorest the most. They called for the "elimination from and red-tape may throw us into an economic fallspin for which they will have to answer to angry voters only 650 days from now. Meantime, if the Republican party will swap off its New Dealers for Senator George, of Georgia, and Bob Doughton, of North Carolina, we may prevent the complete Attleeization of America.

NEWS OF INTEREST TO PA. FARMERS

By John H. Harms
(INS Farm Editor)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20 — The agricultural department today announced farmers were making progress in their fight against the destructive European corn borer.

A decline in borer activity was noted this year from last, according to Dr. Thomas L. Guyton, chief of the plant industry bureau. Stalk infestation in 1948 was 26.3 per cent against 27.3 per cent in 1947 and 27.7 per cent in 1946 he said.

During the past three years European corn borer activity has been fairly constant with the pests appearing in about one out of four stalks in 36 counties surveyed by bureau agents.

But Guyton pointed out that the trend is downward and he said the pest is slowly being controlled because more farmers are concentrating on the problem.

Another factor, he said, was that nearly 85 per cent of the state's corn acreage in 1948 was grown from hybrid seed which provides stronger, sturdier stalk not easily weakened by the chewing pests. Guyton said control measures also have held the pests within the counties of previous infection and that no spreading has been discovered.

Chester county registered heaviest corn borer infestation with 75.5 of each 100 corn stalks examined having 4.1 borers each, this year.

Other counties with more than 50 per cent infestation were: Bucks

67.4 stalks per 100, Montgomery, 63.7, Lancaster, 62, and Philadelphia, 61.2 per cent infestation.

The agriculture department said the number of sheep and lambs to be fed for winter and spring marketing in the state is expected to be smaller than last year. A sharp reduction is expected in the corn belt states.

Timely reminders from the State College Agriculture School — store left over seeds from last spring at a temperature of about 50 degrees so they will be all right for use in spring 1949. Test them for germination before planting. Dairy-men who have more heifers than they can house should keep only the best and sell the extra ones. Heifers kept should be selected on the production records of their female relatives.

State College poultry specialists says experiments on different rates of feeding show that hens on full feed lay more eggs and produce them at a lower cost per dozen than hens on reduced rations. Feed layers well. . . bulk crops of turnips, carrots, beets and other root crops should be stored in orange crates or baskets, or in alternate layers of roots and straw to give them required air.

KEYS JUMPS FROM 9TH TO 5TH SPOT
AMONG SCORERS

"Howie" Keys, forward of the Franklin team, made the biggest jump among the individual scorers of the Bristol Basketball League during the past week. Keys leaped from ninth position to fifth and is now but one point away from "Dick" Mingin, of Fifth Ward.

"Johnny" Pindar, Profy's, who leads the pack, saw his immense lead dwindle as his team did not play. "Johnny" Rodgers, of the Hibernians, picked up 9 points on Pindar, while VanLenten, St. Ann's, who is coming up fast, cut 14 points off the lead.

Quite a bit of changing is expected in the standings of next week, for the league plays three dates, with two games on Sunday, Tuesday and Wednesday night. The games for next Wednesday on the Rohm & Haas floor are those that were postponed on December 22nd.

The leaders:

Player	Games	FG	FT	Pts.
